

Safety Jeopardy Instructions

By Jacob Bashore, D Troop, 1/3 ACR, FT Carson

The Safety Jeopardy games were created for the Company Safety Officer to offer a fun and exciting safety day brief. These games can easily be changed to fit each unit's own focus. I strongly encourage you to thoroughly review these games and adjust them to meet your units level. Questions may need to be made easier or harder to make it a fun but challenging game.

These games are operated in Microsoft Power Point. Slide 2 lists the categories, and is the basis for the game. Clicking on any number in the category will link you in to "the answer." At the bottom, right hand corner of the "answer" slide, click on the arrow box to be taken to the "question" slide. Most question slides include additional information on the subject to help make the game a learning experience. At the bottom, right hand corner of the "question" slide there is a "U" shaped arrow box. Clicking on this box will take you back to the category slide. The "Final Jeopardy" box at the bottom of the category slide works the same way as the category numbers. Slides can be hyperlinked to different slides by highlighting the number or box on the slide and going to "Action Settings" under "Slide Show" in the toolbar.

Each game includes two "Dragon Daily Doubles" with an M1 tank sound bite attached. This slide can easily be changed by replacing the dragon with your company's logo. The animation can be adjusted by clicking on the "Slide Show" icon and then "Custom Animation."

If you have any problems operating these programs, please email me at jakebashore@hotmail.com and I would be glad to help you. Brave Rifles!
